Business Minister Profile (BM Profile)

Michael Chapman, the Business Minister

► I have taken the bold step of restructuring my career, life, and goals around my values and faith. After recognizing my path was leading me away from God and my highest potential, I knew I had to make a change or risk losing a full life lived. I know I am not alone in this crisis, which is why I am committed to showing up for others who face similar challenges.

► Faithfully Unsuccessful - While often wildly successful in worldly pursuits of money, assets, and influence, these men have reached a point in their careers where the success feels less like meaningful pursuits and more like albatrosses. Deeply faithful they see now that their life does not reflect their true hearts.

► Leaders Without A Navigator - These business leaders are looking to follow in the footsteps of their idols, large enterprises that keep faith first but still wildly successful. Uncertain about how to bring faith into the way they run their business they are looking for someone who understands both worlds and can help guide them.

► Approach - A business minister is meant to act as a beacon of understanding in a sea of blue suits. Michael is a safe place to have the hard conversations about the poorly negotiated life agreements people feel forced to make and explore how to renegotiate their contracts with employers, employees, and family.

Thus, I help men breakthrough their internal issues, transform, and become or resume who God called them to be.

The program is 12 weeks and consists of the following modules –

- Submission: Any change begins with submission to something or someone.
- Accountability: Sustainable changes do not happen without accountability. We work to define this and who the client will be accountable to.

- Grieving: Most, if not all “stuck” places or hang ups require something to grieve, usually deep inside. I create a safe place to grieve losses men have incurred.
- New Information: Once the heart has been cleaned out and the losses have been grieved, we replace the old information, poor programming (lies), with new information to build on and trust.
- Goals: We set new and realistic goals: Spiritually, relationally, and professionally.
- Actions: Goals with without action are just on the whiteboard of our minds. We agree on specific actions to meet the goals we set and sustain spiritual, mental, and emotional health.

About the Consultant

As our on-site counselor, Michael works with professionals who are discovering sabotage to their success, or mental blocks brought on by life adversity. Whether experiencing divorce, depression, business decline, or simply wanting to dive deeper into emotional intelligence, Michael will help unlock blocks through his program. Michael is one of our firm’s greatest resources. His coaching is needed by most professionals at some intersection in their lives.
